Social Service

is now very much discussed in societies, organized for the moral uplift of the people. But the greatest service is rendered by those who encourage the people in economy and thrift. Comfort and happiness go hand-in-hand, and the man or woman who determines to save something each week or month will eventually be comfortable and contented. Hence let us impress upon the readers of this paper this great and important lesson, that without money laid aside as a nest egg you cannot reach that happy season in life when you can look back upon work well done.

The selection of the bank for the safeguarding of your money is entirely an individual choice. People unaccustomed to banking business may be led to think that money is safer or more productive in one bank than another. There is nothing in that. You receive the same interest in all, no more, no less. The standing of the bank is largely dependent upon the character of the men behind the institution. This bank will render every possible service to its patrons, and security is second to none.

WORK BEGINS AT POLICE STATION ARMY OF CONVICTS READY FOR ROADS

Much-Needed Changes Will Be Made at House in the First District at a Cost of $8,000

The work of improving the First Police Station, on which the Board of Commissioners proposes to spend nearly $8,000, began yesterday. The improvements will consist of an additional cellroom and another "pen." This, it is believed, will provide ample accommodation for prisoners and relieve the congestion, which has been a source of much complaint. Sixteen horse-stalls will also be added. The installation of a pistol range for target practice is an improvement which Chief of Police Werner has sought for a long while. He is confident it will be the means of greatly improving the marksmanship of the members of his department. Improvements will shortly begin at the Second Police Station, but will not be as elaborate as at the First. The Board has only $3,000 at its disposal for this purpose. Property adjoining the Second Station has recently been bought, and will be utilized in making necessary changes.

For a long while the Second Station has been inadequate in many ways for the care of prisoners. The cellroom space is limited and frequently overcrowded. The Police Board expects to relieve these conditions as much as possible. A new stable is now nearing completion at the Third Station, South Richmond.

CITIZENS HAVE RIGHTS

Justice Crutchfield Reprimands Policeman for Needless Arrest. "The police must learn that a citizen has a lot of rights that are respected," said Police Justice Crutchfield yesterday when he dismissed a charge of refusing to move against T. R. Clarke, and reprimanded Patrolman Marcuseon for making the arrest. "There was not a ghost of a reason for arresting this man," he added. Clarke explained that he was standing near the Main Street station waiting for a train. He said he was an employee of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, and produced papers to prove it. Clarke said that Marcuseon did not give him an opportunity to make an explanation as to why he was loitering near the station.

Termination of Shoe Contract Leaves 450 Men Available for Camp Duty This Week.

All necessary arrangements for employing to the best advantage the 450 convicts available for road work on next Thursday night are being made by Captain P. St. Julien Wilson, State Highway Commissioner, and Superintendent Wood, of the penitentiary. It will require not only a great deal of money to transport these men to the various camps in different parts of the State, but an army of guards will be needed as escorts. This large number of convicts becomes available for work on the public highways through the expiration of the State's present contract for the making of shoes in the penitentiary. On May 1 all but about 500 of the convicts housed in the big prison will be free to be moved about at will by the State authorities, and in pursuance of the policy announced by Governor Mann, every man who can with safety be allowed outside the penitentiary walls, will be ordered into road camps. The number coming in this category is 550.

Commissioner Wilson has decided to divide the 450 men into companies of fifty men each, and place them in nine camps in different portions of the State, where their services are most needed. They will be sent into the following counties: Tazewell, Amelia, Rotolourt, Appomattox, Stafford, Culpeper, Lunenburg, Spotsylvania and Brunswick. Except for the cost of the additional guards, the expense of supporting the men in the road camps will be practically the same as inside the prison.

Series Closes This Afternoon. Rev. Harris E. Kirk, D. D., of Baltimore, will deliver the last of his series of lectures on the Bible in the Grace Street Baptist Church this afternoon at 4 o'clock. His subject will be "The Epistles to the Galatians." The series delivered by Dr. Kirk during the past week has been under the auspices of the Federation of Men's Bible Classes, and has been so successful that it has been determined to make the course an annual event, bringing to Richmond each year some leading teacher of the Bible to address the men's classes of this city.

MAJOR APPROVES ANNUAL TAG DAY

Issues Permit to Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association for May 6.

WANT BIG AMOUNT THIS YEAR

Work of Association Greatly Enlarged, and Additional Funds are Necessary.

Permission for the annual "Tag Day" of the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association was given yesterday by Mayor Ainslie for Tuesday, May 6. Reviewing the valuable work of the organization and its worth to the community, the Mayor wrote to Mrs. J. Scott Parrish, president of the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association of Richmond, as follows:

In compliance with your request made in behalf of the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association that I give my consent to and approval of a Tag Day on Tuesday, May 6, for the purpose of receiving voluntary contributions for the support of the work of the association, and to occupy the streets, parks and public buildings of the city for that purpose, I beg to say that I consider the work of your association of such character, magnitude and value to the city that I feel it not only a privilege and pleasure, but a duty to grant your request.

As a charity, the work of your association is commendable in that it provides the sickly homes of the poor and lowly with trained, professional attention in hundreds of cases of sickness each year that would otherwise be without it.

As a constant informant of the Board of Health, the school authorities, the officials of the Juvenile Court, and other city departments of conditions that would otherwise be unknown to them, it greatly increases their efficiency.

As the precursor to the community of hundreds of lives of children that would be sacrificed to lack of knowledge and attention, this work is of vast economic value.

Therefore, in the exercise of authority vested in me by law, permission is hereby granted to the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association, its officers, employees and duly authorized agents, to receive contributions for the support and maintenance of the work of the said association on Tuesday, May 6, 1913, and for this purpose to use and occupy the streets, parks and such portions of the public buildings of the city that will not obstruct the same, nor interfere with the discharge of public business.

Very respectfully yours,
GEORGE AINSLIE, Mayor.

First to Originate.

The Tag Day of the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association has become an institution in Richmond, and although there have been many organizations to imitate the same method of soliciting funds from the public, the first was the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association, which introduced here five years ago by the association. Each year since the first the receipts have increased.

There is scarcely a locality in the city that reaches the persons for whom the public subscribes in a more direct and personal way. Its nurses are ready on any minute, night or day, to answer a call for help from any section in the limits of the city. No distinctions are made, no color line drawn, and no favors shown to this creed or that. It is a strictly non-sectarian charity.

The nine nurses in the service of the association pay practically 1,000 visits a month during the year. During the twelve months ending in February, 1913, 2,071 visits to suffering men, women and children were made by the nurses. In the same time, 339 articles of apparel, of household use and of medical care were lent to 181 different patients. In many instances the articles preventing privation and suffering.

The expenses of the association, however, are not small. Pending entirely upon the public generosity for support, the association last year received contributions totalling $5,766.92, while the running expenses amounted to $8,215.19. Not more than one-quarter of the year's receipts were given on Tag Day itself.

Work Has Increased. Since the beginning of the year the board of governors of the association has determined to greatly widen the scope of its activity, and has added two additional nurses to the force. One is a registered negro graduate nurse, who will work exclusively among the colored patients and respond to calls from colored physicians. Her services have been of immense value to the association since she was added to the force. The second nurse was engaged on April 1.

The increase in the field force of the association has added to the expense, so that the board feels a $5,000 Tag Day is a necessity if the year is not to end with a deficit.

"Impress on every one that the tag is an emblem of a kind thought and deed done to those less fortunate than themselves," said Mrs. J. Scott Parrish, president of the association. "Wear the tag in this spirit, the association greatly deplores the soliciting that is so often done on tag days. The idea is a free gift, given in the spirit of love to one's fellowman, and in return, the giver is asked to wear the token of the deed."

Immunity from further tagging is promised the wearer of the white emblem in the rules for the day, and the wearers are requested not to leave their stations to solicit contributions.

HEARS $24,000 SUIT

Subcontractor of Richmond Post-Office Sues J. Henry Miller, Inc. In the United States District Court yesterday was consumed in the hearing of evidence in the $24,000 suit of A. C. Bedford, for the benefit of the American National Bank, Inc., against J. Henry Miller, Inc. The last named firm is the general contractor in charge of the construction of the new Richmond post-office. A. C. Bedford subcontracted to supply the granite.

The suit is brought to compel J. Henry Miller, Inc., to pay the plaintiff $24,000, which, he charges, it unlawfully withholding on the ground that Bedford caused the general contractor heavy losses by failing to supply the granite within the time fixed by the contract between the two. Unlawful in the sum of $10 a day delay in delivering the material, the general contractor is withholding $24,000 of the amount due for the granite that was supplied.

After hearing evidence all day court adjourned yesterday afternoon and will resume the trial of the case tomorrow morning. The jury was instructed by Judge Waddill to report at 10:30 o'clock.

NORMAN SELECTS JUBILEE WORKERS

Retail Merchants' Association Preparing for Great Semi-centennial in 1915.

SAMUEL COHEN CHAIRMAN

Movement Already Indorsed by R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans.

President C. T. Norman announced yesterday the appointment of the following committee from the Retail Merchants' Association on the proposed Peace Jubilee in 1915. Samuel Cohen, chairman; Charles T. Norman, H. C. Boschen, Captain W. M. Myers, I. H. Kaufman, J. G. Corley, W. H. Schwarzenbach, and J. G. Corley.

The movement to hold a great Peace Jubilee in Richmond in 1915, on the anniversary of the surrender at Appomattox, was launched by Mr. Cohen at a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association last Thursday night. It has since secured enthusiastic approval of R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, and of other bodies.

The work of the committee, Mr. Norman explained, would be largely to interest the people of Richmond and of the State in the movement, to formulate a definite plan, and to report a method by which it can be accomplished. If found practicable it is proposed to invite both the United Confederate Veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic to meet in Richmond on the fiftieth anniversary of the surrender. A great military pageant, in which militia from all the States participate in the war, North and South, will take part, it is suggested.

Want City and State Aid. The committee will proceed at once to interest the City Council in the project, with a view of securing both city and State aid. Not since the Confederate reunion of 1901, it is pointed out, has the city undertaken more in the way of a celebration than the entertainment of an occasional convention, or the holding of a State Fair, and the committee is anxious to make the anniversary of the war, it is believed that the time is ripe for showing the nation that Richmond is on the map. It will be an inspiration to the whole nation, Mr. Norman asserts, to show the city that has been built in the short space of fifty years from the desolation of war and the horrors of reconstruction. The Confederate Memorial Institute will be ready for a formal opening at that time, and it may be that the proposed equestrian statue to Stonewall Jackson can also be completed in time to be unveiled in the presence of survivors of both armies.

OZANAM CENTENNIAL

Bishop O'Connell and Others to Speak at Celebration To-Night.

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Frederick Ozanam, founder of the society of St. Vincent de Paul, will be celebrated at 8:15 o'clock this evening in the McGill Union auditorium, under the auspices of the Conference of St. Vincent de Paul, of the city of Richmond. Similar celebrations by the society are being held throughout the world today.

A. J. Cavanaugh, president of St. Vincent de Paul, will preside at the meeting. J. C. Hagan will make an address on "The History and Work of St. Peter's Conference." Dr. James Buchanan will speak on "The Associated Charities of Richmond," and Bishop O'Connell, of the Diocese of Richmond, on "Ozanim, His Life and Work." An attractive musical program will be rendered under the direction of Mrs. P. J. Archer.

SEABOARD ORDERS FORTY ENGINES

Contract Awarded to Richmond Branch of American Locomotive Company.

Orders have been received at the local branch of the American Locomotive Company for forty locomotives for the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company. The price was not announced, the list including several types of engines and aggregating approximately three-quarters of a million dollars. With the work now in hand the local branch of the American Locomotive Company is working up to its normal capacity, will be running a full shift for some months to come.

A recent meeting of the board of directors of the Seaboard Air Line it was announced that $2,000,000 had been apportioned for improvements, a large proportion of which was to go into new equipment. In inviting a proposal from the American Locomotive Company, President W. J. Harahan specified that the engines were to be built at the Richmond works. Most of the new engines are to be of the Pacific type, for fast freight service. Work on the new contract will begin as soon as the drawings can be prepared, and the engines will be delivered from time to time during the summer.

ONLY ONE LAW FOR WHITE AND BLACK

Judge Richardson So Holds in Refusing to Renew Liquor License in Leigh Street.

COLORED PEOPLE PROTEST

Neighbors Show That Bar Was Located in Strictly Residential Section.

"There is only one law in Richmond for negroes and white people," asserted Judge D. C. Richardson, in the Hastings Court yesterday, in refusing to renew the retail liquor license of John M. Ryan, at 1223 West Leigh Street. Ryan has been in business at that location for a number of years, and no objection was presented to him or to the manner in which he conducts his place. But about fifty respectable negroes, who had gathered to protest against the license, appeared to testify that the location was objectionable, in that it is in the best residential part of the colored quarter. Richard Evelyn Byrd appeared for the protesting negroes, and O. Wendenburg for Ryan.

In summing up the case, Judge Richardson said that the law provided no distinction between white and colored people. Liquor licenses had been refused in white residential sections because of the objections of neighbors to the location, and the respectable negro family was entitled to as much protection at the hands of the law as a white family.

On the evidence of colored people living in the vicinity, it appeared, continued Judge Richardson, that the location was not "suitable, convenient and appropriate" as required by law, and he, therefore, refused to renew the license.

As no objection had been presented against Ryan as a suitable person to conduct such a place, and as there was no evidence against the manner in which the place was run, the court indicated that if Ryan desired to apply for a license at another location, his application would be heard, and for a reasonable time, no objection would be granted in lieu thereof.

The case of Otto Gragnani, applying for permission temporarily to transfer his bar from its Broad Street location to Second Street, pending rebuilding, to which there is some objection, indicated that if Ryan desired to apply for a license at another location, his application would be heard, and for a reasonable time, no objection would be granted in lieu thereof.

All State licenses become due on May 1. When the city licenses were being renewed last February, Judge Richardson announced that he would defer all contests until the hearing on State licenses. If any person who has paid his city license fails to get a State license, he may apply to the City Council for a pro rata refund of the tax, while had any one been refused in February, there would have been no way of securing a refund of the unused portion of the State license.

WORK IS HALTED BY LACK OF CASH

Thirty New Counties in Girls' Canning Clubs if Appropriations Were Available.

More than thirty counties could be added to the ranks of the organized girls' canning clubs, according to Miss Ella K. Agnew, if the State appropriation were sufficient. There are now fifteen counties in Virginia in which the girls are thoroughly organized, three additional counties in which there are individual canning clubs, and between thirty and forty counties ready to be admitted.

The agreement under which the canning clubs are operated now calls for one-fourth of the expenses to be borne by the Federal government, one-fourth by the State, and one-half by the counties themselves. In some instances, the board of supervisors appropriates the half-share, in others the canning club is secured by private subscription. The State's appropriation is limited, so is the sum given by the government, consequently, only so many counties and no more can make the agreement outlined above.

Miss Agnew, who has charge of organizing and training the girls in the Virginia clubs, visited the capitol yesterday for consultation with Joseph D. Eggleston, who has supervision of the field work of the United States Bureau of Education in rural schools. Both officials admitted that further expansion until the next session of the Legislature is impossible because of the lack of funds.

"I received a letter not long ago from one of the counties telling me that more than 150 girls were ready for instruction from me in the art of canning," said Miss Agnew yesterday, "but what could I do? There is no money left for me to help these girls who are so anxious to begin the profitable work, and they must either organize on their own hook and plug along until money is found, or disband and wait until the State increases its appropriation."

"Counties all over the State are putting up their one-fourth share of the expense and saying to us, 'Well, State, here is your part,' and we have to reply that we cannot fulfill our promise yet. We are confident, however, that the General Assembly will vote us more money."

In the fifteen organized counties there are now between 700 and 800 girls working in the canning clubs. In the recent reports of the United States Bureau of Education, Virginia girls were at the top of the ladder in quality of work done, and amount of money received per capita, although far outnumbered by girls in other Southern States.

COLORED MASS-MEETING

Mayor Ainslie and Others to Speak on Subject of Clean-Up For Tonight. A mass meeting of colored people, to be held at 8 o'clock at Ebenezer Baptist Church, will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at Ebenezer Baptist Church, corner of Davis and Park streets. The meeting is being held to discuss the subject of a cleaner Richmond, and to arrange for an overflow meeting at a nearby church.

Mayor Ainslie, Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, Robert Lecky and Gustavus A. Ebel, Jr., of the Board of Health, and Dr. H. L. Harris, of the Board of Health, will speak on the subject of a cleaner Richmond. Colored churches and other organizations which have appointed official representatives are asked to notify the Board of Health, 405 East Main Street, giving the names of the organization and of the representatives. Seats will be reserved for such delegations.

The call for the colored mass-meeting is issued by the Board of Health, and by the Society for the Betterment of Housing and Living Conditions. The general chairman, Dr. E. C. Eberth, and Lucy A. Peters, secretary of the Neighborhood Association, W. P. Hope, general chairman of the committee of the Neighborhood Association.

BOY SCOUT WORK

Local Troops to Give Big Demonstration Here Next Month. The Boy Scouts of Richmond are rapidly increasing in number, already sixteen troops with an enrollment of between 200 and 400 scouts. In May they will be given in one of Richmond's largest halls, a free scout demonstration, in which all of the troops will take part, demonstrating the scout law, scout emblem, the scout motto (wag-wag) signaling, first aid to the injured, life saving, wall scaling and scout games.

L. S. Dale, national field scout commissioner, will present several scout badges and give a brief talk on scout work. Richmond is much behind other cities in this respect. It is expected that after this demonstration, some of Richmond's best and foremost citizens will realize the need of a council and help Mr. Dale to make Richmond one of the leading scout cities.

Colored Students Debate. The debating team of Union University won a victory over that of Howard University in the college chapel, on North Lombard Street, Friday night. The subject was "Resolved, That the government should impose a graduated income tax." The affirmative being upheld by the victors. The disputants for Union were W. W. Clark, W. A. Adams, J. C. Owen, for Howard, J. O. Catalan, W. A. Pollard, and E. A. Love.

MRS. BRECKINRIDGE WILL SPEAK HERE

Kentucky Woman Leader and Descendant of Col. McDowell Will Talk on Suffrage.

Mrs. Debra Breckinridge, of Lexington, Ky., who is widely known in the South as a suffrage leader and speaker, will make an address in the John Marshall High School auditorium, under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia, next Saturday night.

Mrs. Breckinridge is known in Virginia not only as a leader and organizer among the women of her own State, but through her great-grandfather, Colonel Samuel McDowell, who was a native of Virginia. He went to Kentucky as a soldier, presided over the nine conventions that ushered her into Statehood, and afterwards over the first Constitutional Convention of the new State. Mrs. Breckinridge has been a pioneer in the woman movement in Kentucky, and has occupied the same position of leadership as her distinguished forbear. She was for two years a member of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and for four years chairman of the legislative committee of the Kentucky Federation. Under her leadership bills were obtained from the Legislature by the federation creating a State library commission, giving the suffrage to women and recreational privileges to school children.

The use of the John Marshall High School auditorium has been given for Mrs. Breckinridge's address by the courtesy of the School Board. In coming to Virginia at the invitation of the Playground Association, Mrs. Breckinridge will make a State campaign, having been asked to speak at Staunton, Norfolk and several other points. She will be introduced in Richmond by Mrs. B. B. Valentine, and on the platform with her will be officers of the League and representatives of the State and city government.

About 200 members of the Elena Beneficial Society of Italian Ladies and their escorts enjoyed a banquet and dance at Boliviers Hall Thursday night. There were a number of toasts and speeches at the banquet, and the dancing followed. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Chasie Traferri and Mrs. A. L. Morris.
